Cops probe suspicious death of child

On Sask. reserve.
Boy, 6, found injured at First Nation after being reported missing by family-services caregiver

ROSS ROMANIUK
ross.romaniuk@metronews.ca

RCMP and other authorities are probing what they describe as the suspicious death of a six-year-old boy who was found with fatal injuries at a First Nation in southeast Saskatchewan.

The child — a ward of an aboriginal family-services organization — was found at Kahkewistahaw First Nation on Wednesday at about 10:20 p.m., shortly after he was reported missing and nearly two hours after he had last been seen by his caregiver.

"The injuries sustained are consistent with what we would consider a suspicious death," RCMP spokesman Sgt. Craig Cleary told reporters on Thursday in Regina, without specifying how the boy had been hurt.

"The extent of the injuries are what we would consider as evidence that could be used in a trial."

Cleary declined to specify where at the reserve the child was located. He suggested he had no information on whether a weapon might have been involved.

"At this point in time, I'm not prepared to say 'homicide,'" he added of the tragedy at the First Nation, about a half-hour drive east of Broadview.

"But it definitely meets the criteria of a suspicious death, versus dying of natural causes."

The boy — who was under the care of Yorkton Tribal Council Child and Family Services — was reported missing at about 10 p.m., when his caregiver told police that the child had not been seen since 8:30 p.m.

Following a call about the injured boy being located, paramedics transported him to a hospital in Broadview where he was pronounced dead.

"I don't know the location of the actual biological family," Cleary said.

"All I can say is that the biological family has been notified of the child's death."

RCMP said they will not release the boy's name due to a request from his family.

Police are investigating, along with the coroner's office and agencies including Yorkton Tribal Council Child and Family Services and the provincial Ministry of Social Services.

Hail to the new chief: First native woman to lead Sask. Mounties

Brenda Butterworth-Carr. Commanding officer plans to stay the course on policing in the province

ALYSSA MCDONALD
alyssa.mcdonald@metronews.ca

Brenda Butterworth-Carr will make Canadian policing history next week when she becomes the first aboriginal woman to lead a provincial RCMP division.

With more than 25 years of experience, the chief superintendent — stepping in on Monday as commanding officer of the Regina-based F Division — sees the recognition as a reflection of her hard work and commitment.

"I am confident, I am capable and I have the ability to do the job — and that's what it comes down to," Butterworth-Carr told reporters on Thursday.

Throughout her career, the 45-year-old has served as a First Nations policing co-ordinator, aboriginal advisory NCO and acting officer of aboriginal policing services.

She will end her most recent role as chief superintendent in criminal operations — the No. 2 RCMP rank in Saskatchewan — on Friday, before starting next week as commanding officer. In her new position, Butterworth-Carr plans to keep the force in the province on its present course.

"I don't really see changing things, necessarily," she said, "because I think we have an extremely good foundation. And I just see building upon that."

Butterworth-Carr will take over from outgoing assistant Commissioner Russ Mirasty, who has been commanding officer since 2010 — the Mounties' first aboriginal in such a post. He is retiring to his hometown of La Ronge after 36 years on the force.

A member of Tr'ondek Hwech'in Han First Nation and hailing from Dawson City, Yukon, Butterworth-Carr became a mother at the age of 16. She explained that positive role models in the RCMP inspired her to join the force in 1987 as a native special constable.

Handing over the office: RCMP Chief Supt. Brenda Butterworth-Carr will become the commanding officer of Saskatchewan's F Division on Monday, replacing retiring assistant Commissioner Russ Mirasty. ALYSSA MCDONALD/METRO

"There were influences that occurred well in advance in my town.... We had positive members out there in the community," said Butterworth-Carr, a mother of three grown sons.

Her elevation to Saskatchewan's most senior RCMP office is humbling, she said, adding that she wants to continue working hard for the force and the community.

"I love what I do," she said, "and that's the passion that I bring to it."

Muslims urge city to annex property for mosque

The fate of a proposed mosque and community centre just south of Regina lies with the city's contentious plan to annex parts of the neighbouring Rural Municipality of Sherwood.

Munir Haque, of the Islamic Association of Saskatchewan in Regina, urged city council on Thursday night to annex the group's property so it can move ahead with a plan for a new place of worship to serve some 6,000 to 8,000 Muslims.

"(Regina) is where we pay our taxes. That's where we feel we will have the most ability to serve our community in terms of getting our development done," Haque said at a city public hearing on the annexation proposal.

After purchasing land in Sherwood in 2011, Haque said, the group petitioned the RM to rezone the property to allow construction of a mosque at the site.

However, this year, the rezoning application was denied, throwing about $500,000 that the group had raised for the project into limbo.

Under the terms of a trust agreement, Haque said the group could use that money only for this particular project.

Annexation could be a reprieve the group desperately needs, he said.

"This idea of annexation into the city boundary was a breath of fresh air," Haque said. "We've met with the mayor, with Coun. Mike O'Donnell and got a warm reception."

If the property is annexed, there is no guarantee that council would approve the construction of the mosque and community centre.

Rather, Haque added, the group would have to restart the process and apply to the city.

Honouring the memory of Jack Layton

Olivia Chow, right, looks on as Sarah Layton and her daughter Beatrice sit on a bronze statue of former NDP leader and Jack Layton, after its unveiling at Toronto's ferry terminal on Thursday. The revealing of the statue, which is a gift from the Ontario Labour Federation, coincided with the city renaming its ferry terminal after the popular politician. Chow said the statue and the renaming of the ferry terminal is a huge honour and would have meant a lot to her husband. CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Justin Trudeau: Yes, he inhaled

And he's not apologizing. Liberal leader says marijuana prohibition policy costs law enforcement $500 million a year

Justin Trudeau says, yes, he's inhaled a few times and, yes, he was already a member of Parliament the last time he did and, no, he has no regrets about it.

The Liberal leader laid out his past marijuana use in a lengthy interview and in an exchange with reporters Thursday in which he made no apologies.

He said he's smoked pot five or six times in his life — including three years ago during a backyard get-together — and never really liked it much.

Now that he's come clean about using pot, he said, he'd like to move on and talk about the hundreds of thousands of people who have a criminal record for it.

Trudeau sought to shift the focus onto his policy of legalizing marijuana when asked by reporters about his drug use and whether it had been a mistake.

Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau answers questions from the media in Quebec City on Thursday. FRANCIS VACHON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

"No, it wasn't a mistake," Trudeau told journalists in Quebec City.

"I do not consume cannabis. I am not a big consumer at all. I tried it.... I've never tried other types of hard drugs. I am not a consumer of marijuana but, yes, I've already tried it. I used it — maybe five or six times in my life."

He said he believes public opinion has moved on and he's confident that Canadians will judge him less harshly than his political opponents.

What matters now, Trudeau said, is ending a marijuana prohibition policy that he says costs law enforcement $500 million a year and has left 475,000 people with criminal records since the Conservatives took office in 2006.

He has said that issue touched his own family.

Trudeau originally made the marijuana admission in a candid interview with the Huffington Post, in which he also revealed that his youngest brother, Michel, was charged with marijuana possession shortly before his 1998 death in an avalanche.

Woman dies from injuries in shark attack

A 20-year-old German woman who lost her right arm in a shark attack off of Hawaii last week has succumbed to her injuries, her family says.

Jana Lutteropp was the first person to die from a shark attack in Hawaii since 2004. The incident is drawing attention from state officials, who say they're getting calls from the public asking if beaches are safe. At the same time, they hope a new study will close gaps in scientific knowledge about shark movements around Maui.

In-vitro fertilization

Test-tube babies could be made for 200 euros

Since the first test-tube baby was born more than three decades ago, in-vitro fertilization has evolved into a highly sophisticated lab procedure. Now, scientists are testing a simpler and cheaper method.

Many would-be parents spend thousands of dollars for IVF, which involves pricey incubators and extensive screening. But European and American scientists say a simplified version of the procedure aimed at developing countries could be done for about 200 euros ($265 US) with generic fertility drugs and basic lab equipment that would fit inside a shoebox.

Manning announced the decision in a written statement provided to NBC, asking supporters to refer to her by her new name and the feminine pronoun. The statement was signed “Chelsea E. Manning.”

“As I transition into this next phase of my life, I want everyone to know the real me. I am Chelsea Manning. I am a female. Given the way that I feel, and have felt since childhood, I want to begin hormone therapy as soon as possible,” the statement read. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rob Ford ‘can’t wait’ to arm-wrestle the Hulkster

A little over the top? Controversy-plagued Toronto mayor to take on his ‘hero’ Hulk Hogan in friendly match at city’s Fan Expo

Toronto’s mayor often takes on the media, but on the morning of Friday, Aug. 23, he’ll face an even more intimidating opponent — his “hero,” Hulk Hogan.

Rob Ford says he “can’t wait” to arm-wrestle Hogan in a friendly event.

The legendary shirt-ripping wrestler will be in Toronto for Fan Expo, where he is set to hold an “uncensored” question-and-answer session on Friday evening.

But first, the 14-time wrestling champion will arm-wrestle Toronto’s mayor, Ford’s spokesman announced on Twitter.

“When I was a little guy — the wrestling and stuff — it was good,” Ford said.

Ford was asked about the event while at the Ontario legislature for the swearing-in ceremony of Doug Holyday, the former deputy mayor of Toronto who was recently elected as a provincial Progressive Conservative. Specifically, Ford was asked if he had seen a scene in the movie Rocky III, in which Hogan fights Rocky.

“(If) he starts swinging, I’m going, man. I’m right out the door,” Ford said, laughing. “I’m not going to sit there and take him on.”

Alberta woman describes surviving 12 days lost in woods

JEREMY NOLAIS
Metro in Calgary

Her jaw was broken, her clothes were drenched and she was face-to-face with a bear. It was the night of July 14, the first of 12 the woman (whose name Metro is withholding because police allege she is the victim of a sexual assault), would spend lost in the bush.

According to RCMP, the woman had been sexually assaulted hours prior by a friend after the truck they were travelling in became stuck on the reserve’s north end. It’s alleged he punched her in the face, breaking her jaw, but she managed to escape.

Speaking for the first time since the incident on Thursday, the woman said she became immediately disoriented after she was hurt. Then the rain started coming down.

“I found a den,” she said. “I went inside and then a bear came. She smelled me up.... I kept my eyes locked (on her), I didn’t even want to blink.”

The woman claims the bear then walked away but she continued to hear it nearby. By morning, it was gone.

But the ordeal was far from over. “I just kept telling myself, ‘You’re not going to die,’” she said. She made sure to keep her clothes dry but also hopped into the river from time to time to ride the current, a faster method of moving than by foot.

Finally, on July 26, the woman was found. She was rushed to hospital and spent weeks recovering. Even now, her jaw is not healing properly.

Still, she’s just happy to be alive.

“I’ll never forget the bear,” she said, before adding, “I have got a second chance at life and am so grateful for that.”

THE MAN WHO HACKED ZUCKERBERG

KIERON MONKS
Metro World News in London

When a Palestinian programmer named Khalil Shreateh hacked into Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg's personal profile on the social network, the message he posted was respectful. "Dear Mark Zuckerberg," it began, "first sorry for breaking your privacy ..."

The 30-year-old from Hebron had discovered a glitch that allowed him to post on any wall on the network. Facebook usually provides $500 US rewards for identifying such a weakness, but did not pay out in Shreateh's case, saying that he had violated protocol.

In stepped the ethical hacker community, and over $12,000 has been crowdsourced to reward the Palestinian, who was in a good mood when we spoke.

You could have written anything. Were you tempted to make the message spectacular?
No, because it was a serious vulnerability, but I was forced to write after Facebook ignored my first and second reports. I was frustrated.

Were you angry with Zuckerberg?
I admire Mark, and anyone who starts a project like that. Mark built Facebook in college, it did well, he got famous and everyone would want to be like him. I have a lot of respect.

Does this inspire you to hack more famous people and companies?
I will keep watching for new vulnerabilities and report them, as I have done many times before. I will not break anyone's privacy and hope that every hacker uses what they find the right way and not for the black market.

Is this type of hacking very popular where you're from? Will you inspire more of it?
I can't answer that because intelligence people will come after me (laughs).... I hope it will inspire not only in Palestine as everybody needs these skills.

How have your friends and family reacted?
I want to say thanks to the hacker community for their donations, I really appreciate it. My family was worried I would be in jail and never have another job, but I thought I was helping people.

What are you planning to do with the money?
You cannot keep money in Palestine — I am very popular now. My family want me to get married, but I don't.

THE METRO LIST

Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

Some weeks you just have to shake your head.

This is one of those weeks.

1 Sarin insanity? France's foreign minister suspects that the Syrian regime has used sarin nerve gas on its own people at least once, and likely multiple times as the civil war has intensified. It's hard to even think about, never mind look at the heartbreaking pictures of little kids reportedly gassed to death. But look we must.

2 We were bored. Then there's the story out of Duncan, Okla., about three teenagers who allegedly decided to drive by someone and shoot him dead, just for fun. The unlucky random "target" was Chris Lane, a 22-year-old Australian who was out for a jog. Guns don't kill people; they just help the people who do kill people.

3 What a mother. Meanwhile, back in Canada, the grandmother of autistic teen Max Begley got an anonymous letter from a person who signed it "One pissed off mother," complaining about the noises Max makes and demanding that they move out of the neighbourhood or "euthanize him." Police refuse to consider the letter a hate crime, but a love note it ain't. There has been a gratifying outpouring of support for Max since the letter surfaced, but "pissed off mother" has so far eluded justice. She'll have to live with herself, and that can't be fun.

4 The prince of pot. In the same week we learned he'll be a father for the third time, Justin Trudeau, the heir apparent to the national throne, also said he last smoked pot three years ago. There was a time when that admission would have sent any politician's ambitions down in flames (or is that up in smoke?), but it only seems to increase the number of cool colours in his pretty aura.

5 I am NOT a Canadian. Ted Cruz, Texas Republican senator and the latest Tea Party Great Partially Hispanic Hope for President, has a birther problem. He was born in Calgary, which despite some reports, is not in the United States, and holds dual U.S.-Canadian citizenship. Obviously reluctant to invite comparisons to other Canadian politicians such as Justin Trudeau, Cruz has quickly renounced his Canadian citizenship. But if you're born in Calgary, you're one of us, eh?

6 Goodbye, Dickens of Detroit. Elmore Leonard, who apparently could only write bestsellers, including Get Shorty, which was made into a great movie starring Shorty, er, John Travolta, has died at 87. If I had a dog, I'd name it Elmore, even if it was a girl dog. His bark had plenty of bite.

A castle fit for a hedgehog

Rare albinos named after Prince George

Three rare albino hedgehog babies, born on the same day as Britain's new prince, have moved into a miniature castle at a Moscow petting zoo.

George, Alexander and Louis are named after the Prince of Cambridge, who has those three names.

On Thursday, when the hedgehogs turned one month old, they were shown into their new home at the All-Russia Exhibition Centre.

It's a wooden castle with carefully carved windows, dark velvet curtains and a plush bed. A red carpet was rolled out to welcome the hedgehog family into the new home.

Zoo spokeswoman Yevgeniya Polonskaya said she hopes the Prince of Cambridge himself would one day visit the hedgehogs, and said they "have a couple of invitations set aside for him."

Synopsis

Nothing ruins a family reunion like an invasion of masked killers. On the occasion of their parents' 35th wedding anniversary, the Davidson kids and assorted significant others gather at a remote Tudor mansion — is there any other type in these kinds of movies? — to enjoy dinner and one another, but instead end up in a fight for their lives. Only one of the guests, Erin (Sharni Vinson), has the know-how to protect herself. But will it be enough?

Be afraid, be very afraid, cuz You're Next!

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Home-invasion horror. Lack of redeeming social values aside, this disturbing movie will have you peeking through your fingers

Richard: Mark, I don't know what it says about me, but I really liked You're Next. It's disturbing, violent and without any redeeming social value, but I enjoyed sitting in the theatre with my hands over my eyes, afraid of what I might see next. I'm not usually a fan of head trauma, but from what I saw as I peeked through my fingers, it worked well. You?

Mark: Richard, I found it one of the best movies of its type ever. Home invasion films are my kind of scary because it could — and does — happen. But I did find some redeeming social value in it. I thought it turned out to be a sly satire on family dynamics and materialism. Without revealing too many plot twists — and I loved them all — this movie starts as one thing and becomes something a little deeper. And, yes, I don't like to admit it, but I was scared through and through.

RC: It's hard to discuss without giving away a major plot twist, but I will say there is a Manson Family aspect to the story that really creeped me out. That and the anxiety-inducing John Carpenter style score throbbing in the background. It's all effective but it is the idea behind the movie that is truly disturbing.

MB: Let's not leave out the creepy animal masks! And I learned a lot from the movie, like how much can be accomplished with a two-by-four and a simple set of nails. In fact, I just got back from the hardware store. I'm ready!

RC: It is a lesson in survivalism to be sure, but keep in mind how it works out for everyone. I think I'll stick to calling 911. Lessons aside, I did like that while there are a number of hysterical characters here — who wouldn't be upset when your friends and family are being randomly murdered? — the hero, if you can use that word to describe someone who kills a person with a blender, is a woman. So often in these movies women are the scream queens while the men do the heavy lifting. Here, the only person with any self-preservation instincts is female.

MB: I think a blender is a perfect murder weapon for a woman — very Martha Stewart, in fact. Yes, this movie does have a strong woman at its centre, and it's set up nicely in the beginning, with the family sneering at her for her survivalist training.

Comedy

The World's End

Director. Edgar Wright

Stars. Simon Pegg, Nick Frost, Martin Freeman

A teenage pub crawl with four mates was the highlight of Gary King's (Simon Pegg) life. Twenty years later an attempt to relive that past glory becomes less about nostalgia and more about survival when the locals are revealed to be robots. Entertaining and inventive, The World's End isn't as laugh-out-loud funny as the first two parts of director Edgar Wright's trilogy, Shaun of the Dead and Hot Fuzz, but its thematic core — the difficulty of growing up — makes it the most mature of his films.

Hendricks to play a stripper

Breaking news: Christina Hendricks will play a stripper in the film adaptation of you don't even care, do you? The supernaturally beautiful Mad Men star will appear in the upcoming film Dark Places, a mystery novel by Gillian Flynn, author of last summer's megahit mystery Gone Girl. According to Deadline, Hendricks will portray Krissi Cates, a stripper with a dark secret with important implications for protagonist Libby Day (Charlize Theron) and her imprisoned brother (Corey Stoll). Reality TV. James Franco presents ... James Franco!

In James Franco news, James Franco has done something very James Franco-y because, you know, he's James Franco.

Hollywood's hardest working Renaissance Man and jack of every single freaking trade you can imagine (no, seriously, just think of something obscure and maybe a little bit pretentious — betcha James Franco has done it) has announced that he will soon have his own reality show. The show, according to Variety, will air sometime in November and will be called James Franco Presents. What will James Franco be presenting, you ask? That's a stupid question.

He'll be presenting James Franco, in all his Franco-ness, as he explores his one billion different artistic pursuits. #James-Franco.

Drama

Blue Jasmine

Director. Woody Allen

Stars. Cate Blanchett, Alec Baldwin

Woody Allen's latest film centres on the single most annoying character of any recent film. Jasmine (Cate Blanchett) is the widow of a Bernie Madoff type (Alec Baldwin) who is now out of money and options. Leaving NYC behind for a free place to stay with her sister (Sally Hawkins) in San Francisco, her self-centered, haughty attitude combined with her toxic past make it near impossible to build a future. Less a comedy in Allen's traditional vein, this is a character study brilliantly performed. The movie meanders somewhat, but expect an Oscar nomination for Blanchett. RICHARD CROUSE

Diaz and Segel keep us all guessing in the Hamptons

While Cameron Diaz and Jason Segel did enjoy a dinner together in the Hamptons this week, apparently Life & Style magazine's claim that it was a date was a bit off-base. "Jason and Cameron were not romantic at all towards each other; very casual and friendly," a source tells E! News, adding that they were joined at upscale restaurant Nick & Toni's by another gentleman. The friends and Bad Teacher co-stars were also spotted shopping for groceries together earlier that day.

The production has had a grief counsellor on set to help the cast cope since filming episodes for the new season began.

Brandy's ego bruised as she plays to empty stadium

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Poor Brandy.
The singer performed to an empty, 90,000-capacity stadium last weekend in Johannesburg, South Africa, as part of the Mandela Sports & Culture Day. Due to poor publicity, the crowd left after the football and rugby matches, not realizing — or maybe they did? — that Brandy was set to perform. Per the tweet of @Kabomo, a South African musician, "Brandy performed to an empty stadium. With the stadium lights on. She sulked after two songs and walked off." Which, you know, is more than I would have done. I would have looked out and hightailed it to a bar where I would then sit for the next 30 years of my life and think about how it all went wrong.

Lawsuit against Kanye in pipeline after he allegedly punched paparazzo

Kanye West is facing a lawsuit from a paparazzo over allegedly attacking him outside Los Angeles International Airport, according to TMZ. Plaintiff Daniel Ramos claims that "without warning or provocation," West "suddenly attacked, punching (the plaintiff) and attempting to wrestle the camera from" Ramos' hands, according to the filing. Ramos' attorney, Gloria Allred, claims that Ramos fell to his knees on the ground "with enough force that he sustained injuries to his right hip, as well as accompanying pain and emotional distress." He is seeking unspecified damages.

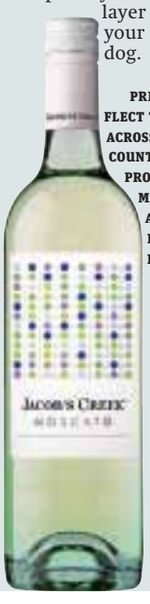
Hot dogs must hate hamburgers. Though they're the yin and yang of the home barbecue scene, take a step off your deck and gourmet burgers are selling for a premium at fancy boutique restos while dogs are relegated to the kids menu.

Not that hot dogs can't hold their own when it comes to haute cuisine. In my mind, the whole concept of a meal in an elongated bun was designed for getting creative with elaborate toppings (and I'm not just talking mustard, relish and ketchup).

Finding a wine that will stand strong against a barrage of eclectic flavours piled on top of a well-cooked wiener is a challenge worthy of The Amazing Race.

I like the versatility of the moscato grape. Originating in Italy, it's synonymous with a slightly sweet style of white wine that's become the darling of winemakers the world over.

Australians love it, and Jacob's Creek 2012 Moscato ($9.95 to $13.49) offers a lightly tropical mix of melon and pineapple that's a perfect foil for anything that will add a spicy, sharp, salty or sweet layer across your designer dog.



PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Steve Yzerman, the executive director of the national men's team, says players won't hit the ice at the orientation camp "because of the high cost of insurance." THE CANADIAN PRESS FILE

Insuring players against injury keeps camp off ice

High price tag.
Potential Team Canada players will settle for information sessions and bonding activities

Steve Yzerman would prefer to get Canada's players on the ice at the upcoming orientation camp for the Olympic men's hockey team.

But the price tag to insure players against injury is too high for Hockey Canada, so the four-day camp starting Sunday in Calgary will consist of informational meetings about the Games in Sochi, Russia, and fostering team chemistry off the ice.

"Not going on the ice isn't the end of the world," says Yzerman, the executive director of the national men's team. "There's lot of other things that need to be done in preparation, logistically going through how we're going to get there, where we'll stay, where family and friends may stay, a walkthrough of the venues, drug-testing policy, a lot of informational things we need to go through and get out of the way. This is a good time to do it."

Forty-seven players — five goaltenders, 17 defencemen and 25 forwards — are scheduled to arrive in Calgary on Sunday and head to Hockey Canada's headquarters at Canada Olympic Park. Canada can take three goaltenders and 22 skaters to Sochi.

Among the summer-camp invitees are 15 players who won Olympic gold in Vancouver in 2010, including Sidney Crosby. The Pittsburgh star's overtime goal lifted Canada to a 3-2 win over the U.S. in the final.

The Saddledome is undergoing restoration from severe flooding in June, but that's not keeping the players off the ice next week, says Yzerman.

"It's strictly insurance," he explains. "It's because of the high cost of insurance Hockey Canada is obligated to place on the players we're not going to skate."

It's up to each country's federation to insure NHL players against injury at summer camps. Hockey Canada president Bob Nicholson has said that would cost more than $1 million.

MLB. Yankees continue dominance over Blue Jays

Andy Pettitte pitched six effective innings, Curtis Granderson homered and the New York Yankees beat Toronto 5-3 on Thursday after a 3 1/2-hour rain delay for their 10th straight victory against the Blue Jays.

Eduardo Nunez hit a two-run single, and the surging Yankees won their fifth consecutive game and 10th in 12 overall. New York improved to 12-1 against Toronto this season with its second four-game sweep of the Blue Jays, and moved within 3 1/2 games of the second AL wild-card spot.

The Yankees have won 13 home games in a row against Toronto, their longest streak against one team since a 14-game run against Kansas City from August 2002 to April 2006.

The last-place Blue Jays have lost five straight and 11 of 15. The only other opponent to sweep a pair of four-game series from them in one season was the 1978 Milwaukee Brewers.

Toronto had a lead in every game of this series, just as it did during New York's four-game whitewash at Yankee Stadium in late April. The Blue Jays have dropped 22 of 24 in the Bronx, dating to 2011. Their 10-game skid vs. New York is their longest against one team in a single season since losing 11 in a row against Boston in 2002. ♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
A colleague may be a bit pushy today and your first instinct will be to push back. Don't. It will be counter-productive, not least because they have more power than you. Stay calm and fit in with their needs.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Are you working too hard? According to the planets you are and the best thing you can do today is take an hour off from your schedule to review what you are trying to achieve.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
This should be a wonderful time for you and if it isn't, it soon will be. A few days from now, your world will be turned on its head and you'll be standing the right way up!

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Family issues will take up a lot of your time today and the sooner you deal with them, the sooner you will be free to do your own thing. Loved ones won't be as difficult to talk to as you appear to believe.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
You need to get out more. Short trips will be especially beneficial today and over the weekend. You may encounter one or two less than friendly people but you will meet many more who delight you.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Mercury, your ruler, joins the Sun in your sign today, making this potentially one of the best long weekends of the year. Personally and professionally you'll soon be moving ahead.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
The thing you fear most is the thing you should be doing the most. That may not be what you want to hear but there it is. Once you take that first step, the rest will come easy.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You sometimes expect too much of yourself and then feel depressed when your efforts fall short. If so you feel that now, lower your expectations and learn to live with who you are.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
If you get the chance to join forces with like-minded people today, take it. Yes, you may have to give up some freedom but in return you'll get the opportunity to change the world.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
With Mercury, planet of the mind, joining the Sun in one of the best areas of your chart, you have a clear idea what it is you want to accomplish — and the personal and professional tools to make it happen.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
The planets urge you to think the unthinkable today. But keep in mind that thinking and doing do not always go together at the same time. The more you think now, the more success you will enjoy later.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You like to see the best in people but the planets warn that today you should operate on the assumption that no one is on your side. It may not be true but you cannot afford to take chances. SALLY BROMPTON

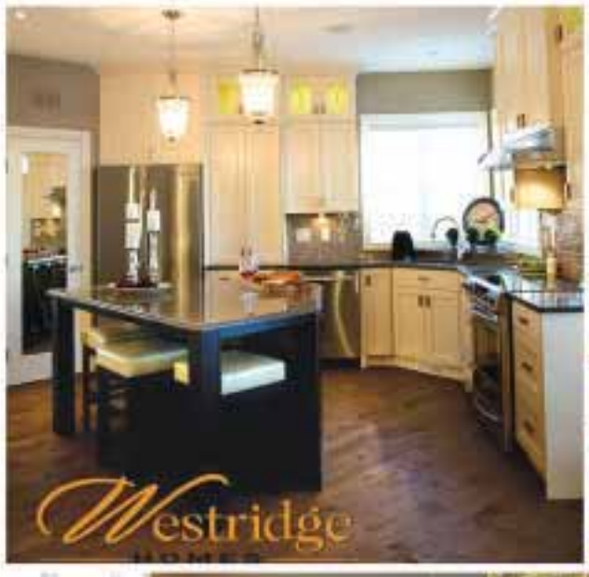
OUR NEW HARBOUR LANDING SHOW HOME



Westridge
HOMES

Show Home Opening
August 24

4949 Wright Road – Harbour Landing

Saturday, August 24th 1pm – 4pm
Sunday August 25th 2pm – 4pm

Our New Harbour Landing show home has an exterior featuring dark oak v-ribbed overhead doors and acrylic stucco with stone accents. As you walk up to the front step, a flagstaff plank front door welcomes you into the home.

Step inside onto driftwood coloured tile and find nine foot ceilings that complement the size of the rooms. Walk past the powder room with its tile accent wall and the stairway into a large kitchen and great room.

The kitchen features an oversize island that is eight and a half feet long and finished in a rich peppercorn colour with a quartz countertop that is offset by the ceiling high maple cabinets which are finished in a clove colour. Pewter coloured oak flooring anchors the rooms for a balanced effect. Enjoy the large windows on the main floor which overlook the creek and pathways behind the house. To the right is the gas fireplace in the great room with its floor-to-ceiling stone face and behind is an office with similar stone accents. Off to the left is the dining area with garden doors to a barbecue deck that has glass panel railing so as not to block the view of the green space behind the house. Open a pocket door off the kitchen to find a closet, bench and hooks in a mudroom with a tile floor that provides access to the triple car garage which is insulated and finished in the same colours as the house.

Walk up the stairs while enjoying the natural light from the large window in the stairwell – bte careful not to miss the coffered ceiling above the stairs. At the top of the stairs off to the right is the carpeted master bedroom complete with en-suite featuring a stand-alone tub with a tile accent wall and a separate tile shower. The en-suite has easy access to a walk-in closet and the laundry room which is a perfect set-up for shift workers not wanting to disturb their sleeping partner when dressing and leaving. The other three bedrooms all have their own walk-in closets with custom built closet organizers. Rounding out the upper floor is a full bathroom with its own tile shower and clove coloured vanity with a quartz countertop. Going back down the stairs to the lower walkout level, you will again find nine foot high ceilings. This level features one bedroom, a full bathroom, a wet bar with a stone feature wall and pendant lighting, along with a large family room for entertaining. For comfort, the concrete slab is insulated with in-floor heat, and the walls and joist ends are all spray foamed. It is again hard to miss the many windows that look onto the back yard and the garden doors opening to a patio giving access to the yard and walking pathways that make up Harbour Landing. The house is 3300 sq ft finished on all three levels (2243 on main floor and upper with another 1057 on the walk-out level).
